LANDING COSTS HEAVILY

American Forces Shoot Down 11 Enemy Planes, Damage Heavy Cruiser.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Two months after U. S. Marines captured the southern Solomons from the Japanese, a major battle today loomed for possession of the important American-held Guadalcanal airport.

This was indicated by the latest navy communique which disclosed that American planes based there have continued to blast enemy shipping and invasion bases in that area but have been unable to prevent landings of Jap reinforcements on the island.

Recent communiques have stressed the fact that American forces on Guadalcanal have failed to thwart the enemy infiltration "under cover of darkness," and it was evident that these Nipponese units soon would make another attempt to recapture the airfield.

In the Aleutians, however, an American victory appeared to be in the making under the wings of U. S. bombers and pursuit planes engaged in a virtual "non-stop" offensive to wipe out Nipponese troops in the Kiska area.

Outcome of the Solomons campaign hinged on ability of U. S. forces to hold the Guadalcanal airport, from which U. S. planes have been taking a mounting toll of the enemy.

These planes have fought off repeated Japanese aerial attacks against the airfield and they also have been blasting Nipponese supply lines and invasion bases northwest of the American positions. Reporting an action on Oct. 2 (Washington date) the navy said:

"A small group of Japanese bombers, preceded by about 30 Zero fighters attempted to raid

PACK TO MOVE

Sweden Says Americans Are Ready to Leave Finland.

LONDON —(INS)— The Stockholm newspaper Aftontidningen, Reuters news agency said today, printed reports that Americans at Helsinki, capital of Finland, had packed their belongings "ready to travel."

These reports were interpreted by the newspaper as apparently meaning that the United States intends to break off diplomatic relations with Finland.

A spokesman for the United States legation at Helsinki was quoted yesterday as denying such reports.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— State department sources today denied Swedish reports received via London that American nationals in Finland were preparing to return home.

1082 RAF Bombers Shot Down In Nine Months, London Says.

LONDON —(INS)— Sir Archibald Sinclair, Britain's secretary of state for air, disclosed in the house of commons today that the Royal Air Force had lost 1,082 bombers over Germany and northern Europe in the nine months ending Sept. 30.

The air secretary said he was satisfied that the bomber command, headed by Air Marshal Arthur Travers Harris, takes every precaution against unnecessary risks when dispatching crews on night raids.

Asks Heavier Levy Against Corporations

LaFollette Touches Off First Fight on Huge Tax Measure.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Sen. Robert M. La Follette, charged today that the pending tax bill in effect taxes "bread out of people's mouths" in the low-income groups and it still falls about $1,269,000,000 short of the revenue that might be obtained.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The senate faced its first major decision on the big new tax bill today with Senator LaFollette (Prog.-Wis.) demanding a stiffer increase in corporation levies.

LaFollette offered an amendment designed mainly, he said, to lift the combined normal and surtax rate on corporation incomes to 50 per cent.

With the normal rate unchanged at 24 per cent, the house proposed a 21 per cent surtax on net incomes above $30,000, or a total of 45 per cent. The senate finance committee reduced the surtax rate to 16 per cent, for a total of 40 per cent.

Under his amendment, LaFol-

RAPS HUML ON OHIO FINANCES

Catlett Says Cuyahoga Dem Once Favored Expenditure of $20,410,500 More.

Rising to the defense of financial policies of Gov. John W. Bricker being assailed by Ohio Democrats, Attorney John L. Catlett, Richland county Republican nominee for reelection to the general assembly, today slashed back at charges of extravagance hurled by Representative Lody Huml, Cuyahoga county Democrat.

As a result of Huml's blast and Catlett's reply, the Bricker administration's financial policies loomed more clearly today as the chief issue of the gubernatorial campaign.

Earlier this week Huml, in a letter to members of the Ohio house of representatives, asserted the Bricker administration spent $88,000,000 more during its first three years than its predecessor and accused the governor of "gyp-

Smoke Nuisance Protests Sent To City Council

Petitions containing 363 signatures of property owners in the Fifth ward were submitted to council last night by Fred Miller, sr., member from that ward, asking smoke nuisance abatement in that area.

Following brief remarks by City Solicitor Leslie K. Wagner the petitions were referred to a joint conference of council as a whole and the city board of health.

"When smoke becomes excessive, or gases thrown off by industries become toxic, action can be taken looking toward abatement," Wagner informed council.

Miller has received numerous complaints, he says, from householders in his ward to the effect that fumes from a steel mill are destructive to house furnishings and shrubbery.

Representatives of council will confer with the city board of health looking to an early conference, it was indicated at last night's session.

City Provides $5,000 For Labor, Materials; State, County Contribute.

The county, city, and state combined forces today to build a 50-foot "black-top" runway at the Mansfield airport and complete other improvements at the field before cold weather.

With the state highway department agreeing to place trucks and grading equipment on the job, the project started by the city more than a month ago received new impetus today. Graders, trucks, and rollers were busy laying slag and excavating for the hard-surfaced runway which will be 2,550 feet long, extending east and west across the field from State Route 13 almost to the Erie railroad.

Under the revamped program, the city will spend approximately $5,000 for materials and labor, while the county and state will haul the materials and donate equipment for the job.

The state's help was solicited to push the job after the airport's application for federal funds for improvements apparently was turned down by the Civil Aeronautics authority at Washington.

About half of the slag needed for the new runway has been hauled in county trucks, County

Japan Says American Sub Sank 7,000-Ton Vessel.

ROME (From Italian Broadcasts) —(AP)— The Rome radio broadcast a Tokyo announcement today that an American submarine had sunk a 7,000-ton Japanese vessel on Oct. 1 in the South China sea.

It said there were about 1,800 English and Australian prisoners aboard the vessel en route to Japan but many hundreds were saved by two Japanese vessels.

LONDON —(AP)— A Domei report from Shanghai broadcast from Tokyo today identified the Japanese vessel reported sunk Oct. 1 by an American submarine as the 7,152-ton army transport Lisbon Maru.

Air Raid Test Alarm to Be Sounded In City Thursday

Mansfield will have an air raid test alarm Thursday, but it won't be the signal for a blackout.

The test alert to be sounded at 7 p. m. Thursday by a two-minute period of short blasts of five factory whistles to determine practicability of the whistles as air raid alarms.

Announcement was made today by James A. McDermid, chairman of the technical board of Mansfield's civilian defense committee, that whistles of the Westinghouse, Ohio Brass, Tappan Stove, Empire Steel and Mansfield Tire and Rubber plants will be tested primarily to determine how far their warning blasts can be heard.

Attorney Glenn W. Marriott, chief air warden, requests that all wardens in the city be on the alert to report on how readily the blasts will be heard in their respective sectors. Each warden is directed to report to the zone leader.

Householders, especially those living in districts remote from these factories, also are requested to communicate with their ward leaders on the results observed of this test.

Last night 52 air wardens of the Fourth ward received their diplomas, insigne, and helmets at graduating ceremonies in Johns park pavilion. James Wolfgang, warden leader, was assisted in organizing his group by Henry Brinkman of the Second ward.

Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, defense coordinator, spoke to the wardens.

Rules Out Babies Born After Sept. 8 as Deferment Cause

Children born since Sept. 8, 1942, will not be considered by draft boards as cause for deferment for registrants about to be called for military service, selective service officials at Washington ruled today.

The ruling followed an announcement yesterday that married men without children will be called for service before the end of the year. Clerks of the three Richland county boards said they would begin calling men who were married before the draft law was enacted by December.

Draft officials in Washington predicted today that registrants with one or two children will be called by the latter part of 1943. Men with one child will be called first after all other classifications are exhausted.

The ruling against considering children born since last Sept. 8 as reason for deferment is the only "fair" method of treating dependencies in the light of statistics which show a greatly increased birth rate since the war began, selective service officials said.

Under the ruling, a registrant who was married but had no children on Dec. 8, 1941, the day war was declared, will be classified for induction with the group of men to be inducted late this year although he may be the father of a child born since last Sept. 8.

Anne Rises to Defend Beauty Of Her Own Legs

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Film Actress Anne Shirley thinks she has a leg (or two) to stand on, and she's going to leave it up to the courts to decide.

The attractive actress doesn't see anything wrong with her underpinning, so yesterday she slapped a $100,000 suit on Charles R. Rogers Productions, charging that another woman's legs were substituted for her own in a scene from her new picture.

Anne doesn't think much of the other girl's legs, either. The complaint alleges: "Defendants used a double for Miss Shirley and said double's legs were of unflattering dimensions, belonging to a former burlesque actress, and were more muscular and half again as large as plaintiff's legs."

NEWMAN, HEDGES LEAD

Youngsters Digging In With Zest To Do Their Part In War Effort, Check Shows.

Elementary pupils are ably demonstrating the truth of the biblical quotation "And a little child shall lead them" in the public school drive to collect scrap metal for the war effort.

A News-Journal survey of the campaign in Mansfield's 13 public schools today showed the youngsters going over the top with the two junior high schools running a fair second and Senior high coming in a poor third.

According to estimates of principals and teachers, Newman and Hedges schools are competing for top honors in the collection campaign. Since Monday noon, Newman pupils had collected an estimated two tons of scrap. They were also bringing in assorted items of brass not included in their main scrap pile and were cooperating with Boy Scout troop 4 and firemen at Fire station 4 in collecting tin cans.

Into the fenced enclosure at Senior high school have gone only a few small items of scrap. Enthusiasm for the drive to aid the war effort was reported to be noticeably lacking. Pupils had been advised that the drive was on, by an announcement over the loudspeaker system, and teachers were asked yesterday to put up posters regarding the drive which they

OUR ONLY HOPE

Jeffers Calls For Faithful Rationing Compliance.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Faithful compliance with the nationwide gasoline-rubber rationing program, says Rubber Administrator William M. Jeffers, represents "the only hope of bridging the gap between the present and the time when rubber substitutes will be available."

In his first radio broadcast since his appointment on Sept. 75, the administrator declared last night he was confident rationing and other conservation regulations would win the voluntary support of most citizens.

"For that small segment of our population who will try to beat the game," he admonished, "I have only this to say—look out."

TORONTO—(INS)— United States troops, believed to be the first contingent to return home from service overseas, passed through Toronto today en route to their homes.

Germans Throw Reserve Troops At Stalingrad

Nazis Revert to World War I Tactics In Effort to Halt Russian Relief Attack From North; Heavy Toll Of Attacking Force Reported.

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW—Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's counter-drive between the Don and the Volga bit deeper today into the north flank of the German wedge into Stalingrad and Russian dispatches said the Germans were falling back upon trench warfare.

At Stalingrad, whose fate hung in the balance, the Germans hurled whole new divisions, fresh from the march, into the bitter street fighting against outnumbered defenders who held through the 44th day of siege.

Dispatches from the battlefront said that across the steppes northwest of Stalingrad the offensive was firmly in Russian hands in a relief attack of increasing scope against hastily-dug German trench lines studded with half-sunken tanks as strong points.

At one point the Russians reported killing 1,200 Rumanian troops and capturing others who tried to hold a small village, and in other sectors the counter-thrust was declared to be gaining ground and improving the Russian position.

The army newspaper Red Star said a dangerous situation developed as the Germans reached an industrial settlement, but heavy Soviet counter-attacks cleared much of the area.

The Red army men were reinforced by new night and day fighter planes.

The Germans were declared hurled from streets, houses, gardens and orchards by garrison forces led by elite guards. Explosive and incendiary bombs caused considerable damage to houses of the settlement and many civilians were among the casualties.

Location of the settlement was not announced, but many of the Soviet factories in that area are several miles from the city.

Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's shock divisions maintained pressure against the strongly entrenched Germans northwest of the city, dispatches said. This area never has been specifically defined.

Numerous tanks are operating in this area and small detachments are playing an ever bigger role in the fighting, Red Star said.

Nazi infantrymen were reported crammed into trenches dug in the steppes. The government newspaper Izvestia said the Germans had buried literally hundreds of burned-out tanks for use as pillboxes.

The noon communique said fierce fighting continued in the Stalingrad area in this 44th day of the siege.

Red army forces improved their positions again in offensive operations on one sector northwest of the battered city and repulsed German counter-attacks elsewhere, it was announced.

A similar action southeast of Novorossisk was declared to have cost a newly-arrived Axis

THREAT: Germans Say British Bind Prisoners, Map Reprisal

(By International News Service)

LONDON—A British raid on the small island of Sark in the English channel off the French coast in which the raiders—according to Nazi charges—bound up prisoners in violation of international law, was claimed by the German high command today.

In reprisal, the Germans said, all British officers and men taken prisoner in the Commando raids on Dieppe will be bound up and future captives will be treated likewise. The German order will be in effect from noon tomorrow.

The German communique did not specify whether the raiders had been landed from boats or planes. Only 16 Britons participated, it was said.

Sark is one of a group of channel islands seized by the Germans immediately after the fall of France.

Apparently referring to British Commandos, a special Nazi communique asserted that in the future all "terror and sabotage troops of Britain and her helpers" will be treated as bandits and will be "ruthlessly killed in fighting."

The German communique repeated the threat that British Commandos taken prisoner in the future will be handcuffed and cited the reported raid on Sark as evidence that the British are violat-

COUNTER: Roosevelt Warns Of Post-War 'Day of Reckoning'

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt, deploring the continuance of barbaric enemy crimes against civilian populations in occupied countries, today declared that this government at the end of the war will demand the "surrender to the United Nations of war criminals."

"With a view to establishing responsibility of the guilty individuals through the collection and assessment of all available evidence," the president said in a statement, "this government is prepared to cooperate with the British and other governments in establishing a United Nations commission for the investigation of war crimes."

The president promised that "just and sure punishment" would be meted out "to the ringleaders responsible for the organized murder of thousands of innocent persons and the commission of atrocities which have violated every tenet of the Christian faith."

Mr. Roosevelt recalled that he had issued a statement in August concerning reports received by him on the "barbaric crimes" of the enemy, particularly on the continent of Europe. He said at that time that "when victory is won the perpetrators of these crimes shall answer for them before the courts of law."

"The commission of these crimes continues," he said today.

"I now declare it to be the intention of this government that the successful close of the war shall include provision for the surrender to the United Nations of war criminals."

The president expressed belief that "the number of persons eventually found guilty will undoubt-

SEE PLANT AS RUBBER SOURCE

Scientists Study Russian Dandelion To Help Meet Crisis.

(By United Press)

STATE COLLEGE, Pa.—The common dandelion may be only a superfluous species of the fields but its first cousin, the Russian dandelion, may turn out to be a boon in the rubber situation for the United States.

Experiments with the Russian dandelion, known to our Russian comrades as "kok-saghyz," are being carried on at the Pennsylvania State college experimental station.

Although the first growth of the "kok-saghyz" has not been as successful as any ordinary crop of the common dandelion, agricultural experts point out that it may be due to the fact that considerable handwork is required in the care of the plant, and that it is expensive to grow.

Prior to its planting in May, after the government asked the college experimental station to conduct a study on the plant, the seeds were subjected to a process in which they were kept on ice for 10 to 15 days to improve their germination.

The gummy substance which can be converted into rubber is found in the root of the plant. The whole plant is dug at harvest time. If the plants at Penn State prove hardy this winter, they may be carried over and not be harvested until next year.

In European Russia, on fertile soil in areas where it is adapted, the plant produces up to 3,000 pounds of raw roots per acre, yielding 30 to 60 pounds of rubber, according to Dr. C. F. Noll, head of the department carrying on the experiment. The sugars and other carbohydrates of the roots are used in the production of alcohol and other by-products.

Dr. Noll is optimistic about the growth of the Russian plant next year, and indicates that it may do better when it becomes more adapted to climatic conditions.

Bomber Reaches Base With Wing Section Broken

LONDON—(INS)—The captain of a Wellington bomber which recently attacked a target in Western Germany saved his aircraft and crew by splendid airmanship and presence of mind.

He had just made his bombing run when searchlights caught and held the bomber. It was hit by heavy flak, and a five-foot section was broken off one of the wings.

The bomber staggered and nearly turned upside down, but the pilot used all his strength and got it on an even keel. With the help of his second pilot he lashed the stick to a strut with a rope from the astro-hatch. This helped him to keep the aircraft trim; but even so flying was very arduous work. As a precaution, the captain thought it best to warn the crew to be prepared to bale out.

"I'm not going to be a prisoner in Germany," the co-pilot said, and gave all the help that he could.

HOW TO GET AHEAD

Our Loan No. 652543 is a typical "Horatio Alger." When refused elsewhere, he wisely borrowed enough money from The City Loan to make the down payment on an old run-down dwelling which he remodeled and promptly rented. He knew he was on the right track. So he went ahead and bought other low-price properties the same way until today he owns 16 fine residences from which he collects a monthly rent of $540.00. NEW CLASH FOR SOLOMONS AIR BASE BREWING

Japs Land Reinforcements on Guadalcanal Despite Loss of 11 Fighting Planes.

U. S. installations on Guadalcanal. Anti-aircraft batteries shot down two enemy fighters while nine more of the attacking Zeros were shot down by seven navy fighters. The enemy bombers turned back and dropped no bombs. One U. S. plane was lost but the pilot was saved."

As a result of this successful defense, navy and marine corps dive-bombers roared up from the Guadalcanal airport to attack a heavy Jap cruiser and several destroyers engaged in landing reinforcements on the island. A hit was scored on the enemy cruiser.

"Shortly after daybreak (Oct. 3, Washington date) a group of navy and marine corps torpedo bombers scored two torpedo hits on the cruiser which was still smoking as a result of the previous bomb hit," the navy said.

Later, army pursuit planes and navy and marine corps dive-bombers bombed and strafed Nipponese troops and supply dumps on Guadalcanal.

The fact that the enemy has succeeded in building up supply dumps on the island indicated that the Nipponese definitely have improved their positions since the early days of the Solomons campaign when U. S. Marines were reported "mopping up" remnants of the Jap units on the island.

To date American forces have destroyed 230 Jap planes and have sunk or damaged approximately 30 enemy ships.

Australians Push On Over Mountains

GENERAL MARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia — (AP)— Australian advance forces moving into the Owen Stanley mountains of New Guinea in the wake of steadily withdrawing Japanese were reported today to have found a number of enemy dead whose bodies bore no gunfire wounds.

It was theorized they died either from illness or starvation after being cut off by the Allied advance which now is in its tenth day.

There was no indication that the entire Japanese forces in the area were suffering from illness, however, and the success of their withdrawal was interpreted to mean that while they might be on reduced rations they still are able to move in fair order.

Today's communique noted again that there was no Japanese resistance to the Australians pushing into the jungles in the Owen Stanley range.

A war correspondent of the Melbourne Herald said it was estimated the most advanced Australian troops were within a couple of miles of the start of the steep fall of the northern slopes of the mountains toward the Japanese base at Kokoda.

IT BOOMERANGS

Candidate's Slogan of No Avail When He Over-Parks.

CHICAGO —(INS)— Emerson C. Whitney, a Chicago attorney and candidate for state senator on the Republican ticket, was sought today on a charge of parking his automobile 20 minutes overtime.

Whitney is campaigning for office with the slogan: "Elect a senator who knows what time it is."

'LITTLE ONES' LEADING DRIVE

Grade Pupils Piling Up Big Heaps of Scrap, Senior High Shows Barely Any.

had previously received from Washington.

Grade school officials are keeping a record of the contributions by classes in a "scrap contest."

A dummy figure of a Jap soldier is being constructed to overlook the scrap pile at Hedges school which today had also grown to an estimated two tons.

Western avenue school reported a collection of approximately a ton and a half.

Brinkerhoff school reported a collection of 1,800 pounds, while teachers at Woodland school said almost no urging had been needed among pupils there.

One Woodland teacher reported, "The pupils started bringing in scrap even before we had announced the drive. They got some of it from a nearby dump, and there is about a ton of it collected now."

West Fifth street school reported the most unusual contributions. They included cannon balls and toy lead soldiers. A poster contest is being conducted in the English department at West Fifth in conjunction with the drive.

Another top of scrap was reported at Carpenter school where each room displays a chart showing what the scrap can be used for, and where its uses have been discussed by teachers during class periods.

An educational movie and talks by teachers have spurred Prospect school pupils to collect a scrap pile six by eight feet at the bottom and two or three feet high.

Despite the fact that its collection started only this morning Bowman school reported 500 pounds of scrap brought in by pupils of the first and second grades. Free admission to a school movie will be won by each pupil bringing in at least ten pounds of scrap.

Bushnell school has been using a poster campaign to encourage the drive and reports a collection of 250 pounds.

At Johnny Appleseed Junior high posters made by the art class and announcements have succeeded thus far in getting pupils to accumulate only about a cubic yard of scrap.

John Simpson has not yet seriously begun its drive but the noon lunch period will be extended to 45 minutes Thursday. Youngsters will be expected to return to their homes and get scrap which will be placed in a truck at the rear of the school. Each pupil bringing in 10 pounds or more of scrap will be admitted free to a movie program that will include pictures of the Coral sea and Midway battles.

Here is a table of the progress of the drive by schools:

School	Amt. Collected
Newman	2 tons
Hedges	2 tons
Western Avenue	1½ tons
Brinkerhoff	1800 lbs.
Woodland	1 ton
West Fifth	Pile 6x6x3 ft.
Carpenter	1 ton
Prospect	Pile 6x8x2 ft.
Bowman	500 lbs.
Bushnell	250 lbs.
Johnny Appleseed	Pile 3x4x3 ft.
John Simpson	Starts Thursday

RAPS HUML ON OHIO FINANCES

ping local governments of their just share of the sales tax" in accumulating a surplus.

"I am astounded that you criticize the administration after the position that you and your party took on the appropriation bill in 1941," Catlett said in his reply to Huml. "If you will refer to the house journal, you may compute that had your amendments been approved, the state would have spent approximately $20,410,500 more this biennium than will have been expended. I recall you spoke in behalf of them.

"It is my best judgment that when the search is on next year for funds to run the schools, pay old age pensions and carry on essential functions of government the people of Ohio will be happy indeed to have the surplus to assist in this financing project."

Catlett admitted costs of state government had increased but declared that had Huml-approved measures been adopted "the state would have spent about $20,410,500 more this biennium than will have been expended," and said "all of which means that we would now have no surplus to discuss."

The Mansfield attorney asserted the increases were made necessary by expanded state services and including an additional $13,000,000 appropriated for old age pensions.

Meanwhile Bricker continues ill of influenza in the governor's mansion, Columbus, as the Democratic candidate for governor, John McSweeney of Wooster, continues his swing over Ohio ridiculing the Republicans' 360-word platform and Bricker's failure to call a special session of legislature to facilitate voting for war workers and Ohioans in the armed forces.

OLD SCOREBOARD GOES

HOSIERY GIFT ADDS 30 DAYS

Woman, Serving Prostitution Sentence, Convicted Again.

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—Sally Prisby, 20, today faced an extra 30-day sentence in the workhouse on a charge of receiving stolen property. She still has 15 days to serve on a prostitution conviction.

Miss Prisby was charged with receiving 53 pairs of silk stockings from the Fashion Knit Hosiery company. She allegedly received the goods from Nathaniel Spruiel, vice ring leader, who was killed several weeks ago by an Elyria policeman he had fatally wounded in a street shooting.

HANDLESS DRIVER FACING CHARGE

Arrested After Accident Without Current Driver's License.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Pearl Perry, 52, who lost both hands and an eye in the last war and who says he has been driving a car for 10 years, must answer a reckless driving charge when he recovers from injuries received when his auto struck a utility pole.

Patrolman F. I. Williams, who filed the affidavit, said today that two old driver's licenses were found in Perry's purse but the latter told him he had left his new permit at home.

Perry was able to drive with the aid of artificial hands and pegs on the steering wheel.

OPA WARNS OHIO FUEL OIL USERS

Tells Them to Convert Promptly To Use of Coal.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Ohioans whose oil furnaces can be converted to coal must make the change with "reasonable promptness" or their fuel oil supply will be shut off, the office of price administration asserts.

Clifford Houser, regional OPA executive, said rationing would require conversion wherever possible and that investigations would be made if officials question an applicant's assertion that a change-over could not be made.

HALT MINE WORK

6,500 Tie Up Production in Rich Anthracite Field.

LANSFORD, Pa. — (AP) — A strike of 6,500 miners stopped all operations today in the rich Panther Valley anthracite fields, which produce more than 4,000,000 tons of hard coal yearly.

Edison Coal company workers demanded $2.08 for mining a car load for a newly-tapped level. The company offered $1.22. A company spokesman said there could be no negotiations until the strike ends.

infantry division about 400 dead in two vain assaults. The Soviet troops held to the height, which was described as "of great tactical importance."

Firming of Soviet lines in the central Caucasus apparently followed a withdrawal from one community in the Mozdok area.

The noon communique spoke only of the repulse of tank and infantry attacks in that area before the Caucasus mountains and Grozny oil area, saying that "in 24 hours our men disabled or set on fire seven German tanks and wiped out about a company of Hitlerites."

Claim Capture of Town In Caucasus

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts) — (AP) — The German high command announced today that German troops had captured Malgobek, in the Central Caucasus south of the Terek river.

(Malgobek is about 20 miles south of Mozdok, focal point of long and embittered fighting. The Russian government announced last midnight that Russian troops had withdrawn from a community in the Mozdok area after breasting four attacks, but did not name the town.)

The high command said Malgobek was "situated in an important petroleum district," of the Stalingrad battlefront the war bulletin said:

"Northwest of Stalingrad the bottleneck was closed tighter around enemy forces encircled there.

"German and Rumanian air forces effectively raided Soviet airports and supply routes on both sides of the Volga river."

Osnabrueck Feels RAF Bomb Strength

LONDON—(AP)—A strong force of RAF bombers made a concentrated attack last night on the German industrial and railway town of Osnabrueck, the air ministry said today.

"Six of our aircraft are missing," the air ministry added.

Osnabrueck, a Hannover province city, was last attacked by British bombers Aug. 17.

Reign of Terror Starts In Norway

LONDON—(AP)—Nazi Commissioner Josef Terboven and new contingents of the German secret police enforced a reign of terror in the Norwegian province of Trondheim today after executing 10 prominent Norwegians and arresting an estimated 700 more in an effort to stem a rising tide of sabotage, reports to Scandinavian circles said.

A state of emergency has been proclaimed in Trondheim and a coastal strip 400 miles long. Terboven announced severe punishment would follow insubordination.

Announcing that the new measures were instituted to "break the sabotage threatening the country's supply system," Terboven was reported to have declared.

"My generosity is finished. Nothing will change my uncompromising decision to smash the enemy's manipulations and provocations."

A Stockholm radio report intimated that hostile action has been directed against the German army and that efforts had been made to sabotage the Trondheim-Mosjoen railway.

British Patrols Rout Garrison In Raid

CAIRO—(INS)—Allied patrols in the Egyptian desert raided an Axis strongpoint and destroyed the garrison which sought to hold the position, it was announced today in a communique issued by the British middle east command.

The communique disclosed renewed patrol activity by both sides on the El Alamein front, 70 miles west of the Mediterranean naval base of Alexandria.

Axis shipping and port facilities at Tobruk, in Libya, were attacked Monday night by Allied heavy and medium bombers.

During the day Tuesday, the communique said, other American and British planes attacked an Axis column of transport vehicles and raided German and Italian camps on all sections.

A Nazi statement said:

"In the early hours, 16 British fell upon a German working party, who were were tied up in their shirts and prevented from putting on more clothes. They were led to the beach.

"When German soldiers resisted this improper treatment, a non-commissioned officer and one soldier were killed by bullets and bayonets.

"These facts were confirmed by the statement of a sapper who succeeded in escaping. Investigation has shown that the tying-up was deliberately planned."

ASKS HEAVIER LEVY AGAINST CORPORATIONS

Senator LaFollette Touches Off First Fight on Huge Tax Bill.

lette said, the surtax would be 26 per cent on net incomes over $25,000.

LaFollette said he would propose a $10,000 exemption for excess profits tax purposes, as contained in the house bill, which the senate reduced to $5,000.

"This would relieve some 8,000 small corporations from having to pay any excess profits taxes and they therefore could stand the hike in the surtax," he explained.

The senate operated in high gear yesterday in approving non-controversial committee amendments to the bill. Within slightly more than four hours after Chairman George (D-Ga.) began his opening statement, the senators had run through all 577 pages of the measure, reserving decisions only on disputed paragraphs.

George was so encouraged by the showing that he predicted a final vote could be reached this week, sending the bill to a joint senate-house conference committee.

The Georgian stood by his estimate that the measure would bring in an additional $7,900,000,000 over a full year's operation, raising federal revenue to more than $26,000,000,000 a year. Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau holds that the bill in its present form will yield less than $7,000,000,000 and has announced he would seek another tax bill for $6,000,000,000 or more.

While the senate considered the corporation levy, one member who withheld use of his name told reporters that the final form of the bill may hinge on acceptance of the proposed 5 per cent "victory" tax on individual incomes over $624 a year.

Consideration of the victory tax was delayed yesterday on request of Senator Downey (D-Calif.) who announced he would offer a substitute proposal calling for a 5 per cent tax on gross incomes over $1,200 a year and a 10 per cent rate on incomes over $2,400.

Under Downey's plan, 100 per cent of the money collected would be refunded to taxpayers after the war. The post-war rebate under the committee's victory tax plan would be limited to 25 per cent of the tax for single persons, and 40 per cent for heads of families, with an additional 2 per cent for each dependent.

As the bill now stands, the normal tax on individuals would be raised from 4 to 6 per cent, and the surtax in the lowest bracket from 6 to 13 per cent. Surtaxes would climb to 82 per cent on surtax net incomes over $200,000 a year, compared with a top of 77 per cent on those over $5,000,000 under present law.

The present income tax exemption of $1,500 for the head of a family would be reduced to $1,200, that for single persons from $750 to $500, and the credit for dependents from $400 to $300.

DISCUSSION OF PLAYS GIVEN BY SPEAKER

Miss Thelma Slack Tells University Women That "Plays Reflect Society"; Dinner Precedes Program at Women's Club.

PLAYS that have withstood the test of time, have a motivating influence," Miss Thelma Slack, head of the department of speech at Ashland college, told the Mansfield University Women at their dinner-meeting at the Women's Club last evening. Dinner was served at 6:15 in two dining rooms of the club house. The long tables were cleverly decorated by Mrs. S. B. Vinson with fall centerpieces of gourds, colored leaves, corn and tiny cattails.

Miss Leona Miles, chairman of the hostesses for the evening, had arranged a hobby interest contest to help members and guests become acquainted. Recipient of the prize was Mrs. K. E. Buhr. Miss Fannie Lew Eiler, music chairman, introduced four high school girls who played three selections. Flutists were Dorothy Ziegler, Marjorie Henry and Dorothy Ohler and the accompanist was Sylvia Jane Fowls. Their numbers were "Poeme," by Fibich, "Songs My Mother Taught Me," by Dvorak, and "Rose of Tralee," by Glover.

The business session was conducted by the president, Mrs. Charles Kuntz. Miss Margaret Strickler appeared in her Nurses' Aid uniform to explain the need for recruits to replace regular nurses who are being called into the army and navy nurses' corps. Reports were made by several committee chairmen.

Mrs. R. A. Rowlands, defense chairman, urged the members to actively participate in all local defense and war efforts; to be informed on price control issues and to take part in the salvage, conservation, rationing and savings bonds campaigns in the community. New members introduced by Mrs. C. R. Keller, membership chairman, were the Misses Janet Kelly, Marie Loesch, Mary Jane Bolus, Mrs. John Harrison, Mrs. Robert Crane, Miss Sullivan, Miss Ghysels, Miss Heskins and Mrs. Robert Zeller.

At the close of the business meeting, Mrs. Thomas Hoffman, chairman of the program committee followed with keen interest tee, introduced Miss Slack, whose talk was entitled, "Plays Reflect Society." She discussed three plays that she had seen on Broadway this summer: "Angel Street," with Judith Evelyn, "Uncle Harry," with Eva LaGallienne, and George Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess." The first two are mystery plays, the latter a musical. Of the two mystery dramas, Miss Slack recommended "Angel Street" the more highly. She pointed out in her talk how playwrights inadvertently have been social reformers from the early Greek plays in their simplicity; the Roman plays, "equivalent to our good burlesque"; the Medieval plays, steeped in the spirituality of the times; Ibsen's great social dramas; Gorky's pictures of Russian life; pre-war Gerhard Haukman's "The Weavers," showing the capital and labor struggle in Germany before Naziism.

Miss Slack interspersed her talk with dramatic readings from the plays she described. Her audi- her readings from "Electra" and "The First Lady." She urged the women to read more plays this winter when gasoline and tire rationing prevent attending the presentations in other cities.

On Oct. 20, there will be a party honoring new members of A. A. U. W. at Prospect park pavilion. Members are to bring their own table service for the covered-dish dinner. The Current Problems study group will have an organization meeting Oct. 13 at the home of Miss Margaret DeWitt, 199 Helen avenue. Bridge parties scheduled are for Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. R. D. Campbell, and the afternoon of Oct. 13 at the home of Mrs. A. G. Earnshaw.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

CHANGES ITS NATURE

All that a chameleon can do, as a lightning-change artist, is to turn from one color into another. A bridge hand can do more than that. It can suddenly shift its entire nature from a definitely bad hand into a good one. You may sit there with cards which seem much too weak to justify any response at all to your partner's bid, but, after he calls again, showing a new suit, realize suddenly that you have a splendid fit for it, together with shortage elsewhere, so that your trumps may be used for ruffing. Then you are in the game.

	♠ J 10 8 4 ♥ 6 ♦ 9 7 5 3 ♣ J 6 5 2
♠ 5 3 2 ♥ K 9 7 2 ♦ 10 2 ♣ K 9 7 3	N W E S	♠ K 9 ♥ Q J 10 3 ♦ A Q J 8 4 ♣ 10 8
	♠ A Q 7 6 ♥ A 8 5 4 ♦ K 6 ♣ A Q 4

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	Pass	2 ♦
2 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	Pass

Where in the world is a bridge player who would not pass North's hand, even if he and his partner used strong No Trumps. Also, where is the player who would not give a raise after hearing his partner make that spade bid? There are some who don't understand distributional values, but not many who could not recognize them in a case so pronounced as this. Those four spades in the North hand could produce anywhere from two to three ruffing tricks, in addition to which the possession of those trumps insures the safety of South's suit by cutting down the number of trumps the opponents hold.

West obediently opened the 10 of his partner's diamond suit, the A winning and the K taking the second diamond. The heart A and a heart ruff, club J finessed to the K and a belated spade lead by West to the 10, K and A enabled South to take the rest of the tricks. He ruffed a second heart, came to his own hand with the club A, ruffed his last heart, ruffed a diamond with the 7—too high for West to over-ruff, then cashed thes pade Q and 6 and the club Q, to get an extra trick.

Even with an original spade lead, he could have made a game.

Tomorrow's Problem.

	♠ 6 5 2 ♥ 7 4 ♦ A K J 6 2 ♣ A Q 9
♠ Q 9 7 4 ♥ K 9 6 ♦ Q 7 5 3 ♣ 8 5	N W E S	♠ J 8 3 ♥ 10 8 3 2 ♦ 8 4 ♣ K J 10 6
	♠ A K 10 ♥ A Q J 5 ♦ 10 9 ♣ 7 4 3 2

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

What sound defense can defeat the declarer's contract of 3-No Trumps on this deal if, after West's lead of the club 8, South calls for the Q from dummy?

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"Exactly," my father replied with his habitually inscrutable expression. "We find these soundproof rooms most convenient when we have to question malefactors we have captured concerning their treasonable activities."

He purposely was making his voice grim and sinister for Carolyn's benefit. He knew she could have no idea of the location of the hideaway because of Miss Whitlock's effective blindfolding, and he had been careful not to mention Greenwich Village in his talk.

And besides, Carolyn, virtually our prisoner, would have no chance to betray to anyone else any knowledge she might pick up.

My father's tactics were having their effect on Carolyn, I saw as she winced, but her voice was still insouciant, if a bit tremulous, as she put still another query.

"And when may I expect to be ushered into one of them?"

Baiting Carolyn.

"Let us hope, for your own sake—not at all," he said. But I knew he was deliberately baiting her when he added with apparent casualness:

"It's going to be—well, interesting—when we question that collegiate gangster, as Richard calls him. He's going to receive some very special interrogation."

Carolyn's widened eyes were the only indication she attached any significance to his words. Then, Dicky, picking up a signal from the chief, broke in to the colloquy.

"May I make a correction, chief?" he drawled. "I called him Carolyn's boy-friend collegiate gangster."

From beneath lowered eyelashes I watched Ronald's young sister intently, at this bit of team work of my father and Dicky.

Which would be her first reaction, I wondered, anger at Dicky for his slurring gibe, or terror at the ordeal awaiting the man with whom we suspected she was infatuated?

But either we were mistaken in our estimate of her emotional attitude toward the young gangster, whom she had made so desperate an effort to join when Dicky and I were taking her from Weirhampton to the Dalemont home of the Brixton's and who, we believed, was the reason for her attempt to escape from the Underwood home—either that, or she was a good actress. With iron-self-control.

"Is it permitted to inquire," she asked, her tones fairly dripping ice-water, "just why Mr. Graham refers to that man as my boy-friend?"

Dicky Takes A Hand.

"Not 'Uncle Dicky' any more?" Dicky countered, his eyes dancing impishly. I shook my head at him in what I knew was a futile attempt to have him leave Carolyn alone. Yet something told me that he was using the tactics most likely to break down her bravado.

I knew that he still cherished anger and contempt against Carolyn, and that, like my father, he had no faith whatever in the sudden willingness to help which she was staging. So I settled back in my chair, watching for her reaction to Dicky's baiting.

"Since we are talking in the third person," Dicky said, distinct malice in his voice, "may I ask my beloved wife to convey Mr. Graham's distinguished consideration to Miss Carolyn Brixton, and to assure her that his reason for referring to the collegiate gangster as her boy-friend was her own very singular behavior on the journey from Weirhampton to Dalemount?

"If ever a sweet young thing put over a show indicating that a certain tall, handsome young gangster was her cherished sweetie, the young lady who has put that question staged such a show."

Niles Brings Heavy Team to Tackle Tygers This Week

Sport Podge by Rex Hess

Newest addition to the Massillon high school football extravaganza are the G.A.B.S.

The G.A.B.S. are 80 girls in special uniform, and they are called G.A.B.S. not because they are gabby, but because they belong to the Girls Auxiliary Bond Salesmen corps.

Seventy-nine of the 80 girls have either a brother or father in armed service. The 80th HAD a brother in service. He was killed in action.

With this patriotic background, the girls are showing Massillon some war bond and stamp selling technique that rivals the activities of the various traveling groups of movie stars in the bond sale drive.

Introduced on the field at the Massillon-Lincoln, Neb., game last Friday night, the girls then swarmed into the stands to sell their stamps and bonds. And in only a few minutes they were all sold out.

Not realizing how good they were as salesmen, the girls had taken only $1,200 in stamps and $500 in bonds to the game.

Al Schwaner, star of last year's Mansfield City News football team, got away to a good start as a member of the Galion Jaycees team last Sunday in a 14-0 victory over Scioto Ordnance Plant of Marion.

Schwaner scored the second Galion touchdown from 11 yards out in the fourth quarter, and helped move the ball into position for Fullback Jim Ernst to score in the first period.

Coach Al Fendrick has been using movies to point out mistakes to his Madison high school Rams. "The Madison Boosters club has been making movies during our practice sessions and I find I can teach the boys a lot more with pictures than I can tell them," says Al.

"When I tell a boy he was doing something wrong, and he maintains he wasn't, I just say 'All right, we'll look at the pictures, and see.' Then there's no argument."

Jean Herrick, second sacker of the Mansfield Provident Loan girls' softball team, will be entering the WAAC's any day now. She recently passed her examination, and is awaiting notice for induction. They didn't tell her what her grade was, but they did tell her it was high enough for officer's training if she cares to take it. Nice going, Punkin!

Bob Montgomery Beaten In Upset

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — The myth of Bobcat Bob Montgomery's greatness was exploded last night, and today in squat game little Maxie Shapiro, a tough guy from New York's east side the fight world hails a new ranking contender for the throne of Lightweight Champion Sammy Angott.

* * *

The flashy colored bobcat, who whipped Lew Jenkins in a non-title bout when Jenkins wore the crown, was battered to unexpected defeat by milling Maxie, a 5 to 1 underdog, in 10 riotous rounds.

* * *

Shapiro won by a split decision Referee Benny Leonard casting the deciding vote. He weighed in at 134¾, a quarter pound less than the Philadelphian.

WHITE SOX AGAIN TAKE CITY SERIES

CHICAGO—(AP)—Winning the Chicago city series is still strictly a White Sox habit.

The American leaguers did it again last night at Comiskey park, defeating the National league Cubs, 4 to 1, to score their eighth straight city championship.

Johnny Humphries turned back the northsiders with five hits. Lon Warneke attempted to stop the Sox, but gave way after pitching the first five innings.

Cardinals Get Big Welcome

50,000 Fans Greet New World Champions.

By CARL LUNDQUIST

ST. LOUIS—(U P)—The St. Louis Cardinals, a happy bunch of apple-cheeked kids who knocked over the New York Yankees four in a row, were home today, glad to have done with most of the hullabaloo attendant upon the world's baseball champions.

The Red Birds took their amazing World Series victory in their stride, but facing the mighty Yankees was nothing to running into the mob of 50,000 excited fans that roared a welcome when the players stepped off the train here last night.

Johnny Beazley, the brash young rookie who defied precedent to win two games of the first World Series he had ever seen, took a look at the crowd and summed up the sentiment of his teammates.

"Gosh!" he said "I'd rather face the Yankees!"

George Kurowski, the blond third baseman from the Pennsylvania coal fields, was the first to step off the train. He got an earful of the uproar and started back. But four husky policemen hoisted him on their shoulders and broke through the crowd while a band played "There'll Be a Hot Time In the Old Town Tonight."

It was Kurowski's home run in the ninth inning that clinched the fifth and final game of the series for the Cards.

The players were herded to an improvised platform at one entrance to Union station where Manager Billy Southworth introduced every member of the organization. Jimmy Brown, tough little second baseman, got a great hand from the fans when he said:

"You see, folks, we just got the most runs and that was what we wanted. After that we got the most dollars and that was what we really wanted."

Beazley, who intends to join the marines when he returns to his Nashville, Tenn., home, said he wanted to let everyone know he was "Just as scared as Billy Southworth" when he pulled his big bluff in the final game with the Yankees.

The Yankees then had three men on base and only one out. Southworth walked out on the mound and said, "Johnny, are you all okay?"

"Sure, Billy," Beazley replied "I'm all right but how are you?"

"I was just bluffing then," he told the crowd. "Honestly, I was plenty scared."

Mayor William Dee Becker who greeted the team upon its return announced that each member of the Red Birds would give a pint of blood to the Red Cross before the players disband today.

Cardinals Mobbed by Welcoming Fans

Ticker tape and confetti welcome greeted the victorious St. Louis Cardinals on their return to St. Louis from New York. Among those mobbed by the 10,000 fans who jammed the station to greet the heroes was George Kurowski, the rookie third baseman whose home run in the fifth and final game clinched the series for the Cards. Kurowski is shown, left, waving amid a confetti hail as other Card players are showered too.

Mahoney Rolls 606 In Tire Loop

Mahoney's 606 total on a string of 175-223-208 led the Mansfield Tire bowling league at Colony alleys last night, and his middle game also was good for top honors.

DEVELOPS ATTACK

EVANSTON, Ill.—(INS)—Northwestern became offense-minded today as the Wildcats drilled for Purdue Saturday, the opening conference game for both schools. Coach Lynn Waldorf said he was pleased with the Purple's defense but wanted to develop an attack that would equal the forward wall.

CHANGE BOWLING DAY

Starting this week, Westbrook women will bowl Friday mornings at 10 o'clock at Colony alleys, changing from Thursday.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—Looks as if the football rules, frozen for the duration, will have to be defrosted. The new shift Dick Harlow uncovered at Harvard makes the offside ruling look rather silly and Lou Little, head of the coaches' advisory committee, will ask to have it changed . . . Race-hoss experts point out that the ban on special trains to the tracks is making the hoss players walk both ways—instead of just walking home.

JOHNNY ON THE SPOT.

A lot of guys would be willing to give the shirts off their backs to help win the war, but the Reds' Johnny Vander Meer did it. . . . After pitching a benefit exhibition game in Jersey the other day, Johnny contributed the shirt of his baseball uniform to be raffled off. . . . It went to the day's biggest war bond buyer.

Lieut Commander Bill Reinhart, former George Washington U. athletic director, once recommended Stan Musial to the Yankees after he failed to get him for the G W basketball team, but by the time a Yank scout arrived the Cards already had signed him.

Ralph Fite, former Pitt guard who played for the Eastern Army All-Stars, is in both the army and the navy. He was drafted after he had applied for a navy commission, which came through the other day, so now he's trying to clear away the red tape and change uniforms.

Illinois Makes Recognition Bid

CHICAGO—(AP)—Western conference football experts, having made up their minds on the possibilities of just about every league contender except Illinois expect to complete their championship indexing this week when the Illini's first non-Zuppke-coached team in 30 years tackles Minnesota.

They've once more tabbed Minnesota, conference winner four times in the last five years, as the team to beat. The consensus is that Michigan, Ohio State and Northwestern will take up the challenge.

The rest of the teams have been relegated to the rank of outsiders.

In games against South Dakota and Butler, Illinois scored 113 points, rolled up 862 yards from scrimmage and their goal line remains untouched.

Middies Travel To Game by Boat

ANNAPOLIS, Md — (INS) — Because of restrictions on special trains for football games, the Navy's football team is going to travel by boat to at least one of its contests.

The naval academy announced that the midshipmen, 1,600 strong, will travel to Baltimore by Chesapeake bay steamers when the team meets Yale Oct. 17. Even the Navy's mascot goat, "Bill the Ninth," will go by boat.

* * *

The team will use the trains for its journey to New York this Saturday, however, for the Navy-Princeton game. Its cheering section will be left home, though.

BUILDS RESERVES

MINNEAPOLIS — (INS) — Coach George Hauser today resumed his task of building up a reserve backfield for Minnesota with the announcement that Bill Garnaas, star quarterback, and Herman Frickey, right half, were doubtful starters Saturday against Illinois. BEAZLEY KNEW HE WAS GOOD LAST WINTER

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—At a hotstove league session here last winter, Johnny Beazley was called upon for a few words.

The Cardinal rookie arose and haltingly said:

"The Cardinals have nineteen pitchers in the roster they're taking to spring training this year, so you see what I'm up against."

"Well, all I can say is that if I don't make their ball club this year they'll have the best pitching staff in the world."

Red Dragons Average Close to 190 Pounds

Madison Faces Suicide Test In Game With Columbus North High

THIS WEEK'S grid card in the Mansfield area is marked by the invasion of Stadium field by the biggest team of high school gridders seen on the Tyger turf in recent years, when the husky Red Dragons of Niles meet the medium sized Mansfield high eleven Friday night.

"They give their weight average at 180 pounds," says Scout Harry Mehock, "but don't let that fool you. They'll come closer to 190. For instance, they've got their two tackles, Doug. Evans and Joe Taranta, down at 220 pounds each, but they'll balance the scales nearer 235.

"That 185-pound fullback, Paul Zorn, is one of the best high school players I've seen this year, and he's bound to give us plenty of trouble," Mehock continued.

Niles has won two out of three games thus far, winning from Canton Timken 15-6, and from Youngstown Ursuline 14-7, while dropping a 24-0 decision to Youngstown Chaney.

In last week's victory over Ursuline, Zorn scored all 14 points for Niles. In the second quarter he tallied on a 14-yard dash and booted the extra point. And with the scored tied at 7-7, Zorn plunged over again in the fourth period for the winning touchdown, and again booted the point.

Against the heavy Dragons, Mansfield's Tygers will be forced to take to the air, and fortunately they showed considerable improvement in their aerial attack last week at Sandusky, particularly in the early part of the game when they winged their way down the field for their only touchdown.

Madison high school's Rampaging Rams take on a suicide test this Friday, travelling to Columbus to battle a strong North high school team which owns a 52-0 decision over New Boston, and a 33-0 verdict over Columbus South.

"We have no illusions about our chances in this game," says Coach Al Fendrick. "You can say we'll just tackle the best we know how, and block the best we can, and let the score take care of itself."

The Rams realize they are going far out of their class in meeting North, but "that was the only team we could book when we tried to fill an open date last spring," Fendrick explains.

Walt Weimer, former Madison star, who scouted North two weeks ago, wrote Fendrick that North was the best high school team he had ever seen.

Two North Central Ohio league games are on the books for Friday, with Shelby playing at Ashland, and Bucyrus going to Galion. In non-league games, Marion travels to Lima Central, and Mt. Vernon goes to Wooster.

Massillon gets another test this week-end, meeting a strong, and undefeated Alliance team, Portsmouth and Springfield tangle in a game marked by strong rivalry at Springfield, and Toledo Woodward, with two straight victories over Adrian, Mich., and Toledo Waite, takes on Defiance at Defiance.

Both of Richland county's class B schools take to the road Friday, Bellville going to Mt. Gilead and Butler traveling to Centerburg.

New London meets Amherst, while Loudonville plays Fredericktown and Crestline has an open date.

VIRGINIA GRIDDER LEADS PRO LEAGUE

CHICAGO — (AP) — Bill Dudley, who last December was the No. 1 choice in the National football league's draft, this week became the league's No. 1 ground gainer.

The former Virginia star brought his total to 205 yards by collecting 60 in 14 tries as Pittsburgh upset the New York Giants. This moved him ahead of Gaylon Smith of Cleveland, whose 174 total dropped him to third behind Merlyn Condit of Brooklyn who had 194.

BUCYRUS—The position of city engineer was abolished in Bucyrus by city council Tuesday night as an economy move.

By ordinance, council voted to abolish the job of George Long, who has been engineer since May 1. and to employ Long only when needed—an esimated six hours a week—for $2.50 an hour.

Long is at present working at Camp Millard, at the fairgrounds, full time and will be brought into city affairs only when needed, Service Director Fred Judd said.

Council voted to set aside $10,000 in the water works fund for the purchase of a new electric unit for the pumping station if a priority can be arranged. The unit will replace a condemned steam unit. City Solicitor Paul Kennedy was authorized to draft legislation to advertise for bids for the new unit. In the meantime the city will attempt to secure a priority for the purchase.

Transfer of $600 from regular to special police fund was authorized to pay for extra policemen now on duty replacing one drafted policeman and the anticipated drafting of another.

Solicitor Kennedy was also authorized to draft legislation for increasing the pay of sewage disposal plant employes who recently requested a raise.

INDUSTRIALS SHOW GAIN IN EARLY TRADES

Increase in Retail Sales Is Spurred By Fears of Goods Shortages.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Industrial leaders generally were inclined to move forward in today's early stock market dealings.

Up fractionally at a moderately active opening were U S Steel, Bethlehem, U. S Rubber, Goodrich, General Motors and American Telephone. A shade lower were Chrysler and Radio corporation.

Holders of shares of the big mail order and other merchandising concerns were cheered by the sizable September sales gains reported for a number of the larger companies, although it was recognized that recent public activity had been spurred by fears of goods shortages later.

Attracting special attention was the report of Montgomery Ward which disclosed a September volume above 1941 for the first time since March. Gain over last year was 3 per cent, in contrast with a 15 per cent decline in August

BUFFALO, N. Y.—(UP)—Twenty-six men who allegedly crossed Lake Erie in rowboats from Canada to attend a Jehovah's Witnesses convention in Cleveland, awaited sentence today after pleading guilty to illegal entry into the United States.

The guilty plea was entered by a spokesman for the group yesterday before Federal Judge John Knight. They were arrested Sept 22 on Grand Island according to Assistant U S Attorney Robert M. Hitchcock, on their return to Canada where the sect has been barred.

The men, all said to be Canadians, have been in jail since their arrest. Two rowboats and a quantity of literature of Jehovah's Witnesses also were seized.

CITY, COUNTY, STATE JOIN ON AIRPORT JOB

Engineer Howard Sword said. The county also has a tractor-grader, a loader, and a roller on the project.

"We are figuring this work as a contribution to the county's civilian defense programs," the county engineer said. "The airport probably is the best defense we have against an attack from the air, and the county wants to see it as well equipped as possible."

Sword estimated that nearly 60 per cent of the grading, excavating and filling-in has been completed Excavators are being used to remove the top soil over the area to be covered by the runway Coarse slag and stone then forms a base and finer slag is rolled over it To complete the runway, bituminous material will be rolled over it and stone chips will be placed on top

J R. Harrington, airport manager said the state highway department agreed to send trucks to the landing field today to haul slag and earth The state already is grading the rough places in the field with a tractor and earth remover.

The new runway, which Harrington has sought for several years, will permit use of the airport at least 75 per cent of the time during the winter as against only 30 per cent of last winter. E. W. James, airport operations manager, pointed out.

He said the hard-surfaced runway will be of great value to the army and navy flier training program at the airport and will serve as a satisfactory substitute until funds can be obtained for other runways

Plans for future improvements call for the construction of a second runway to the south of the one being built When funds, either city or federal are available for the work, the 'black-top' runway will be used for a "taxi" strip for planes James said.

A new 80 by 90-foot hangar, the third to be built at the airport, will be ready for use this week. It will house 25 planes and for the first time will provide facilities for all the planes now in operation at the airport, James added.

The new hangar, located just east of the two older ones, is owned by Arthur Cornell, Shelby grocer, who will lease it to the Harrington Air Service, airport operator

Work also had been started today on the moving of seven of the abandoned CCC camp buildings southeast of Mansfield to the airport where they will be used as barracks and class rooms for the army and navy student fliers, garages, and Civil Air Patrol offices.

The buildings were turned over to the airport without charge, but Harrington said the cost of moving the structures and putting them in condition for use must be paid by the airport operators.

POOR FIDO! — OR MAYBE POOR YOU

He Gets No Meat Allowance—It Comes Out Of Yours.

WASHINGTON—(UP)— The dog in the family will have no opportunity to ration his meat voluntarily—his supplies will have to come from his master's allowance.

The food requirements committee handed down that decision when it decided the dog is "not essential."

The committee has asked all persons to limit their meat purchases to 2½ pounds each week until formal rationing is instituted, and as for the dog—

"If you insist on feeding pets these meats (pork, beef, lamb and mutton) you should, in fairness, subtract them from your personal allowance for the week"

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, October 8.

Romance, thrills, and drama may overtop all other interests and experiences on this day, judging by a most enticing and intriguing chain of planetary configurations While the emotional life may be most involved, there may develop from such adventures much in the way of advancement, expansion and profit of a distinctly productive and workaday quality Friendships and social prestige offer these advantages. Grasp such opportunities guided by subtle intuitive leads but cap the climax by love affairs and matrimonial happiness

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of outstanding happiness and romantic thrills with engagements, marriages and celebrations of blissful events. Such joyous affiliations may be counted upon as well to enhance the position in life and society, with friendships and cultural contacts offering openings to enjoy expanding satisfactions and lucrative returns for worthy performances of worthwhile ventures A keen intuitive stimulus should lead activities into pleasant and perhaps dramatic adventures One might write a successful romantic drama under this urge.

A child born on this day should have ambition of a high order, with subtle or mysterious creative ability It will be romantic and adventurous, with an inclination to dramatize its daily realities.

FINISHES JOB

Contractor Ending Work on Bartley, Glen Beck Lane.

Laying of asphalt pavement on Bartley avenue was scheduled for completion this afternoon by the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company which completed the Glen Beck lane project yesterday.

With the paving firm moving its equipment to Tiffin for a month's work indications are, according to City Engineer W. C. Statler, that the resurfacing of Glessner avenue will be postponed until next spring.

After concrete bases had been completed on Bartley avenue and Glen Beck lane in mid-August government freezing of asphalt materials delayed completion of the projects. Releases were obtained by the city Sept. 4 for sufficient material to complete the three jobs. Work on the two new paving programs was started a week ago.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Culture — same old commodity that used to be spelled with a big C and pronounced Coll-chuh,—is overwhelming us.

Its not enough in these times for a movie star to sptinkle his conversation with an occasional s'il vois plait or buenos dias to show he's been around. Gay little references to Paree or May-heco are no longer the stamp of the cosmopolitan.

Coons

It's a funny thing, but the folks are saying Paris and Mexico and skipping the phoney folderol and getting down to the business of learning languages. If you scratch around a bit, you'll find movie people studying almost every language there is—except possibly Latin and Sankrit. "Amo, amas, amat" hasn't yet hit the dialogue writers, desperate as they generally are for new ways to say "I love you."

* * *

Spanish, of course is the favorite. Good neighbor policy, and all that. All that being the fact that Spanish is very popular in South America and movie stars aren't as dumb as some people think they are. Ray Milland mumbles Spanish phrases offstage as often as he practices English dialogue. He even hired a secretary on the linguistic basis—to practice conversation. Alexis Smith, Brenda Joyce, Maureen O'Hara, Roy Rogers, John Garfield, Linda Darnell, Virginia Gilmore, Rita Hayworth, George Brent and Jeanne Cagney all hablan Espanol, or should be if they're persistent enough.

Rita Hayworth (nee Casino) is learning her native tongue all over—not from her family but from a teacher. George Brent is interested in self-defense, because Mrs. Ann Sheridan Brent is a persistent habla-er. Roy Rogers took it up because of several offers to take a rodeo troupe to Latin America.

Nelson Eddy, Edward G. Robinson and Gene Tierney are learning more about Russian than the usual words like bortsch, vodka and samovar. Eddy can use it in opera, Gene Tierney as "China Girl" probably felt it only neighborly to cross the linguistic border into Siberia, and Robinson heard about "Mission to Moscow" and other Soviet Union pictures months ago—at least he's been studying the language half a year and is up for a key start

Joan Leslie and Carole Landis favor French, on which Claudette Colbert, Boyer, Jean Gabin and Michele Morgan could help them out. Glenn Ford is interested in Portuguese—in contrast to most male Hollywoodians whose main interest in the language lies in listening to Brazil's Carmen Miranda

Tom Mix's Noted Horse, Tony, to Be Destroyed Today

HOLLYWOOD—(U.P.)—A generation of men loses a childhood hero today when one of filmland's most famous "actors" meets death.

He is Tony, the late Tom Mix's horse, who partnered with his cowboy master in many films. Forty years old, lame and nearly blind, he will be put to rest today by a veterinarian

Ivon Parker cared for Tony when he retired after Mix's death. He gave him every attention to ward off the pains of old age, including a special diet to compensate for his lost teeth. But the horse finally began to suffer.

The decision to end Tony's life was made only after long consideration, Parker said.

Thus the $12 horse who played a large role in making Tom Mix a $10,000-a-week western hero will end his career.

MINERS DIVIDED ON QUESTION OF SPLIT WITH CIO

Lewis, Other Leaders Favor Break, But Sentiment For Unity Grows.

(By United Press)

CINCINNATI—A split between delegates to the 37th biennial convention of the United Mine Workers of American on the question of breaking away from the Congress of Industrial Organizations appeared to be widening today as they prepared to act on resolutions for and against the CIO.

Any movement to remain affiliated with the CIO would meet with violent opposition from President John L. Lewis and other UMW leaders, but the United Press learned that there was a growing bloc in favor of reaffiliation.

No date has been set for consideration of resolutions, but the 2,800 delegates were expected to expediate action on less important questions to speed th CIO problem to the floor. A committee will offer the officers' report to the convention today.

Those seeking a reconciliation with the CIO based their efforts on a desire for "redoubled strength for the war effort and the labor movement."

The UMW, stormy petrel of the American labor movement for more than half a century, broke with the CIO shortly after Lewis stepped down as CIO president in 1939. He left on his promise to resign if his presidential choice, Wendell Willkie, were defeated.

Lewis, in a speech yesterday that ended his two-year public silence, said the CIO problem was entirely up to the delegates and pointed out that UMW officers purposely had made no recommendations in their report.

UMW spokesmen indicated that "if preliminary resolutions submitted by local unions are any indication of sentiment, a large part of the UMW favors return to CIO affiliations."

Other resolutions asked support of the war effort, racial equality, elimination of the poll tax, revocation of the Harry Bridges deportation, a second front, election of a "victory congress" and defeat of "isolationist, defeatist, business as usual" congressmen, and wage increases.

Others asked reinstatement to the UMW of Philip Murray, CIO president, removal of Pat Fagan as president of UMW district five for "unjustly" condemning officials of his district.

HERE'S IDEA OF SPENDING RATE

At 85 Billions a Year, Debt Per Capita Will Be $1,045; Think What It Would Buy!

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— A few comparisons for the man-in-the-street on the vast sums of money in the government's revised spending schedule for this fiscal year:

For the year ending next June 30, the government plans to spend $85,183,000,000. That's equivalent to $233,000,000 a day; $9,720,000 an hour; $162,000 a minute, and $2,700 a second—more than twice as much as the average American earns in a year. That's enough to give every man, woman and child in the United States about $635.

The comparisons on the expected public debt of next June — $140,051,000,000 — are even more startling. Theoretically, that will mean that every man, woman and child in the United States will owe $1,045.

That many billions is enough to buy every American a quart of milk each day for more than 20 years, enough to buy every American a swanky $2.50 dinner once a week, including the tip, for more than eight years.

TAKES NOTED INN

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The war department announced yesterday that it filed condemnation proceedings Sept. 29 for acquisition of a leasehold interest in the Greenbrier hotel at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va

The resort, which was used to house Axis diplomats between Dec. 7 and the time they were sent home, will be converted into an army general hospital, the department said.

CITY CHALKS UP $177 PROFIT FROM JUNK BUSINESS VENTURE

Like the peanut vendor who philosophizes, "what I lose on the peanuts I make up on the popcorn," city council finds itself with a slight profit in its recent venture into the junk business as a municipal war effort.

Under a report received last night by council from City Engineer W. C. Statler it was revealed that an over-all profit of $177.83 will be realized from the salvaging of abandoned car rails from city streets and the mining of scrap metal at the city dump.

There is a deficit of $795.31 in the city dump operation, and a loss of $23.82 in one phase of the car rail salvage but in the total receipts $996.96 was received over expenses. Deducting the total deficit of $819.13 leaves the $177.83 profit.

Statler, assuming the Mansfield population to approximate 40,000 persons of all ages, computes the 12,000 tons of salvage represents slightly more than 66 pounds per capita as a result of the municipal operations alone.

These jobs were undertaken, city officials declared, not for profit but actually with the anticipation of loss inasmuch as the war department salvage agencies expressed an urgent need for the scrap.

Statler is of the belief that federal agencies soon will request further salvaging operations at the city dump.

Up and Down THE STREET

Richland countians who like the outdoors are making their hikes into the woods profitable this week. The recent heavy frosts loosened the hickory nuts and walnuts and there is a big crop of them in most sections of the state. In the Richland county area, the heavy rainfall during the late summer combined with the early frost to color leaves their gaudiest shades in recent years. Nature enthusiasts consider this week the best of the fall season for hiking and picnics.

Friendly House holds a record for the distance from which it draws volunteer workers each year. Today for the 13th consecutive season Miss Elizabeth Hildum of Plainfield, N. J., was on hand to assist in the kindergarten. Miss Hildum began her volunteer service with the settlement while visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George Tobias, 326 Park avenue west, and became so fascinated with the settlement program that she has returned each winter since to offer her services. Her father is vice president of the Leheigh Valley railroad company.

"Every week is fire prevention week in Mansfield" Chief Charles J. Seeburger declared today in explaining why the city is not participating in the national observance this week. Seeburger points out that this year's observance was carried out last April in a city-wide cleanup. He urges, however, that all residents make sure that attics are kept clear of discarded clothing, furniture, etc., as such combustible matter readily aids fire bombs which could be dropped in an air raid. Recent instruction schools, he says, have graphically portrayed the safety of bare attics and the menace of junky ones when incendiary bombs are dropped into them. Seeburger suggests another survey of fire hazards at this time as a means of uncovering more scrap metal for munitions.

He was an officer in the first World war but he isn't going to be a "re-tread" in this one. J. Dudley Sears, former Crawford county prosecutor, is going into the army Saturday as a selectee, leaving Bucyrus as just another member of a group of future soldiers. Sears was a first lieutenant in the last war. He is well known in legal circles here.

GETS ORDERS

County Told Equipment May Go Into War Work.

County Engineer Howard Sword and other county engineers throughout Ohio had been asked today to submit inventories of their construction machinery to the War Production board by Oct 31, and were ordered to obtain government permission to go ahead with all new projects amounting to more than $1,000. The previous limit was $5,000.

The instructions were issued at a meeting in Columbus yesterday by Burton Miller, executive secretary of the Road Builders association. Sword, Deputy Engineer Walter E. Rusk, and County Commissioners C. L. Mitchell and Guy Stewart attended the meeting.

Sword interpreted the request for equipment inventory and valuation of the machinery as meaning that the government may soon take over some of the county road equipment for war construction work.

Hal Sours, state highway director, told the group that income from gasoline and auto license levies probably will drop 40 per cent next year and urged the counties to reduce their programs accordingly.

CARRIER PIGEON FINDS NEW HOME

Roosts In Ohio Industrial Commission Office, Won't Leave.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — A carrier pigeon flew into the window of the Ohio Industrial commission in the state office building and liked it so well that it refused to leave until forced out.

The signal corps at Fort Hayes identified the pigeon from its band as belonging to A. R. Sourilliard, Allentown, Pa.

"If he wants to file a claim for workmen's compensation he belongs in Harrisburg, not Columbus," John Goodrich, commission claims chief, said today.

HIGH TEST GAS EXPLODES, FIRE PERILS HOMES

Fuel Drums Blow Up, Spread Flames Among B. & O. Cars at Bellaire.

(By Associated Press)

BELLAIRE—A spectacular fire, punctuated by intermittent blasts of exploding drums of high octane gasoline, destroyed 15 cars of a derailed Baltimore & Ohio railroad freight train near here today.

Bellaire firemen said the blaze broke out after a terrific explosion at 5:19 a. m. (EWT), and was raging out of control two and a half hours later.

They said 15 box cars loaded with steel drums of gasoline already were consumed by the flames and that four more cars, held fast by locked air brakes, doubtless would burn as the intense heart prevented firemen from fighting the flames.

The repercussion from the exploding oil drums knocked a coal miner, his wife and seven children out of their beds. The miner is Pete Cleary, whose home is within 200 yards of the blazing string of cars.

Firemen pumped water from a stream and sprayed Cleary's house as the intense heat threatened to ignite the frame structure.

Deputy Sheriff William McLaughlin of Belmont county reported no one was hurt, and that the crew had proceeded to Wheeling, W. Va., with what was left of the train.

Constable Charles Sechrest of Bellaire said trainmen told him they didn't know how the fire started, but "there was a terrific explosion that seemed to lift the locomotive right off the tracks."

The trainmen theorized, Sechrest said, that static electricity might have set off the blaze in the oil drums, or that a "hot box" might have started the fire.

The scene of the blaze was eight miles west of Bellaire on the B. and O.'s single-line Newark-to-Wheeling line.

The blaze was visible in Bellaire before daylight, Patrolman Ed Good of Bellaire reported.

Witnesses said gasoline drums were exploding "every minute or so," ripping through the box cars and flying 100 feet into the air.

Patronage Falls Off at Notorious Arrow Game Club

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Patronage at the Arrow club was reported on the down grade today.

Traffic along the highway leading to the resort, just over the line in Geauga county, has dropped off considerably in the last two days, said operators of business places in the neighborhood.

Three days remain until a closing deadline set by Governor John W. Bricker, who notified county authorities Monday that if the resort, which he identified as a gambling club, were not shut up mediately he would direct the attorney general Saturday to "take such steps as may be necessary to enforce the law," and to investigate the office of Sheriff Stuart Harland.

Two dice tables, one table each of blackjack, roulette and chuck-a-luck and three dozen slot machines drew a crowd estimated at about 300 by newsmen who visited the place last night. A large parking lot was only partially filled.

CLOSES GARAGE, GOES TO ARMY

Lloyd F. Campbell, who has operated the Park garage at 60 South Franklin street for 13 years, closed his business yesterday to report for army duty.

Campbell, known to friends and customers as "Red," recently enlisted at Fort Hayes in Columbus and is standing by for a 24-hour call.

He has stored all equipment and expects to re-open his business after the war. Campbell and his wife reside at 281 Lexington avenue.

PASSING DREAM + + +

By Margaret Gorman Nichols

(Copyright, 1942.)

CHAPTER XIV

When morning came, bright and warm, Temple was already awake, having been awake the whole night through. It had been much too long a night, but tonight would be shorter. Until Monday the nights would be all too brief indeed. She wondered whether Jud would remember to buy her a ring.

She got up quickly and made the bed and took a shower. Hearing the house come slowly to life with people preparing to go to work, she packed, leaving out the navy suit and the frivolous hat to wear, taking with her a navy slack suit, a plaid skirt and red sweater, moccasins and a white satin nightgown Fran had given her two Christmases ago.

It was an odd wardrobe for a bride. She felt a little sad about it because only the nightgown did justice and was suitable to the occasion. Fran whose greedy hands took in everything to herself had given Temple her trousseau; one nightgown.

She did not like what she had to do next: leave the house before the others because she did not want anyone to see her departing with a bag. It was furtive and somehow shabby to walk quietly down the creaking old steps, praying she would not meet anyone, and then outside rush in a direction opposite from the one others would take. On the street she felt conspicuous, as though people were staring at her.

In a small basement restaurant she had breakfast and watched people going to work. For a second she wished she was among them, that she was free, that she had no desire and no love that was making her unconventional, making her do this thing which a few months ago she would have scoffed at. But only for a second until she remembered Jud and the fields around Paula's farm that would be green . . . Until she remembered Jud and the relief that had come to his face and body when she said she would marry him. That was real, too, as real as these people going to work and the smell of bacon and coffee . . . As real as the shining sun . . . As real as the war.

She had time to waste since she could not go to Paula's until 10. A delightful idea struck her. . . . She would buy Jud a present! She could spend three dollars. But what could she buy a soldier? She paid for her breakfast, went out and walked downtown, the heavy bag in her hand. Would he remember to buy her a corsage? The florists' shops were overflowing with beauty . . . She entered a department store and walked up and down the aisles, trying to see something a soldier could use. She found it at last, an odd gift for a bride to give the bridegroom, but one which a soldier could use. It was a shoe-shining set, compact and complete. His shoes were always highly polished. But the moment she paid for it her mood for being practical passed. She would like to give him something really beautiful.

It was ten minutes to 10 when she came out of the store. Now there was no more time to waste. There would not be a minute to waste until after Jud went away.

Paula was sitting up in bed, reading her mail when Temple went into her room.

"Oh, good morning, darling," Paula said. "You look . . . you look the way I'd like to look at this hour! Pull up a chair. Our breakfast will be up shortly. This darned old mail . . . I'd like to get an exciting letter, but I have no idea what could excite me. Maybe you can. Why are you playing hookey from your job?"

The maid appeared with two trays. She placed one before Paula and the other on a small table beside Temple. Temple wondered how she could eat two breakfasts. She had quite forgotten that Paula had asked her to breakfast.

She tried to smile though she succeeded in looking only young and anxious and a little nervous.

"Paula, I wonder . . . I wonder if you'd let me use your farmhouse until Monday . . ."

Paula's expressive hands, lavishly buttering toast, were suddenly still. She looked at Temple directly. "Why, certainly. I'll call Mamie and Herman and see that it's in order and that there's wood brought in for a fire. You can never tell. When it rains in May, it's often cold enough for a fire." She went back to buttering the toast. "There's a lot of food in the pantry. No fresh meats, of course, but a good many tinned ones. You can get fresh meats in the village. Mamie would come over and cook for you if you wouldn't mind having her around."

"Jud and I are going to be married today . . . He's leaving Tuesday. He enlisted."

Paula's hands were still again. "Oh!" Then, "Temple you poor kid."

"Is that what you think I am?"

Paula sat back against the pillows. She took a deep breath. Her hair was so bright it looked as though it would go up in flames. "Who knows? I don't pretend to. But you don't get married for a week-end, my dear."

"We are."

"And you think it will end there?"

"No. It will begin there."

Paula shook her head and smiled. "I can't talk to you. There are 20-odd years between us, Temple. We can't reach each other. You've come to me because you think I'm a friend and because you are sure that I won't lecture to you. Very well, I won't. But those 20-odd years are screaming in my ears." She smiled again. "If you can take this in your stride and everything that it involves, things you don't dream of now, if you pick up again where you left off . . . then you're some gal, my friend."

"We're thinking only of the week-end. That's all we're sure of."

"Of course. Of course. But why . . . Oh, never mind." She laughed. "What can I do except give you my blessing? And since this tray won't let me move, you come to me and let me kiss you. . . . Oh, don't let me forget to give you the key to the house! Look who's getting excited! Me! What am I excited about. I'm not getting married. No, thank heaven. I have reached the blissful state."

A few minutes later Paula said, "Don't thank me." She said, holding Temple's hand, "you know, when you come back next week, quite a few of those 20-odd years will have dropped off. It's a strange thing what marriage does to a woman. It will change your whole conception of everything. You won't come back the same, Temple, though it may be months before you realize the change in your outlook. It's mental, all mental. You're scarcely listening . . . Never mind . . . Have your week-end marriage with your soldier lover and call me up when you get back. Men have given me everything I have, but I'm for the women . . . Run along. You're wonderful for me. You've given me something to worry about. No woman is really normal unless she is worrying. Good-bye, darling."

"Good-bye, Paula, and thanks anyway."

"I'll call your office and lie for you."

* * *

Jud was not waiting in the lobby of the small hotel where last night they had decided to meet. She waited ten minutes before he came and when she saw him the few fears that had been mocking her fled instantly. As he walked toward her, smiling, her throat ached and she felt lightheaded. She knew that she would never be able to tell anyone how she felt then and she wondered if there could be a higher moment.

"Sorry I'm late, darling. The people at the office held me up." He tried to say it casually for the benefit of people near by. But something had happened to his voice, the thing that always happens when you try to be casual and every nerve in you seems to be beating separately.

"I haven't been waiting long." Just to say something . . .

He took her bag and package; they went out and walked to a parking lot. When they were in the car he turned to her. "I'm glad you wore that. You look lovely. Here . . ." He reached in back for a box and brought it forth. "Here's something no bride should be without. I'll put them on you. I've never done it before and I don't know how it's done, but here goes."

Two orchids . . . "They're lovely!"

"Not lovely enough," he said soberly. "Not good enough." Jud looked straight into her eyes. "You're very calm, Miss Graves."

She smiled. "I'm not, really . . . I have the key to Paula's house."

"And I have the ring. No, I won't show it to you. It looks like gold cord. No diamonds, sorry. And now will you leave the rest to me? I made some inquiries and a phone call and we're expected. I didn't want to go out and look for a clergyman . . . You're taking a chance, darling. You still have time to change your mind."

"I don't want to change my mind, Jud. Why do you think it is more of a gamble for me than for you."

"Because you're better than I am and deserve a better break."

"I choose you . . . and whatever happens."

"Then let's go."

They drove to Virginia where the honeysuckle filled the air with sweetness and where farmers were following their plows and where Model T Fords moved jerkily over the road like spry old ladies in black bonnets. There was a brightness and clearness about the day that was purifying as though the warmth and light were penetrating every dark corner.

Jud asked, "How do you feel, darling?"

Temple smiled. "I feel as though I were going on a picnic. On days like this at home we always went on picnics."

He laughed quietly. "Some picnic!"

They passed through another village with its inevitable court house and bank and school and post office.

Temple said impulsively, "Look, Jud—at those people! They are America . . . women in clean house dresses going about their marketing and going to the bank to put in their savings. There are more of them than the others and because they are strong we have a democracy. I learned that in economics."

"There are swell little towns in Italy and France, too. More picturesque than ours. Ours are like pictures by amateurs."

"Grant Wood is no amateur."

"I don't share your national feeling, Temple. Can't you see the rich New Yorkers motoring through here and saying, 'Ah, the simple life, how sweet!' and driving as fast as they can to big parties and the races in Florida. Would you rather be a penny-pinching housewife in a cotton dress or dressed up like a million dollars at Hialeah?" He reached for her hand and held it tightly. "You're being married today. We're almost there."

SEES SHORTAGE OF OIL IN WEST IF WAR'S LONG

Army Expert Calls For Building Up Reserves; Refiners Paint Darker Picture.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Brig. Gen. Walter B. Pyron, war department oil expert, has told congress that the army can foresee a shortage of oil on the west coast if the war "goes on too long" and that oil reserves in other sections may be heavily depleted. The statement was endorsed by Robert Allen, representing the petroleum co-ordinator, while spokesmen for oil companies painted a darker picture of the possibility of a scarcity in the United States. This came as they testified before the senate public lands committee.

"The army does not anticipate any difficulty in 1943," General Pyron said, pointing to the increasing demand for war needs. "We can see a possible shortage on the west coast if the war goes on too long."

He said there should be a program of increasing reserves, but added that this is dependent somewhat upon steel that can be spared for drilling purposes.

Charles F. Roeser of Ft. Worth, Tex., appearing for the Independent Petroleum association, called for higher prices for oil, intensive new development and warned of dangers lying ahead for the United Nations.

"The widening spread of the United States war fronts is calling for a greater amount of petroleum exports," he said. "The United Nations lost about 80,000 barrels per day of petroleum supplies when the Dutch East Indies fell to the Japs and 600,000 barrels daily of the Russian oil supply is now threatened by the Nazis.

"Further Nazi drives toward the Near East will also threaten the petroleum supplies of Iran and Iraq, which amount to 250,000 barrels daily. This has already increased the demands of the United States petroleum supply and this country may well become the only remaining protected source of oil to the United Nations."

"Unless the oil industry replaces annually at least the amount of oil produced from reserves, there is no assurance that production can be continued for any appreciable period at current levels," he said.

He criticized the office of price administration — with Price Administrator Leon Henderson present—for refusing to permit higher oil prices.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1942.

The nation's steel mills are crying for scrap to keep their furnaces busy. There are millions of tons of idle scrap scattered over the American landscape. Only you and all other loyal Americans can start that scrap on its way to the mills. No scrap, no steel. No steel, no ships. No ships, no victory. So you see, every American is responsible in a great degree for the success of our ship building program.—Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman War Shipping Administration.

C. of C. Membership Expresses Faith

WITH so many things to engage attention and require participation, it is important to keep in mind the relative importance of various activities and to make sure that no essentials are neglected.

This week, for instance, there should be a concentration of thought on the locally vital matter of assuring the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce a sufficiently large membership to not only be representative in personnel but also to provide the financial support and working force necessary to carry on the work of this essential civic organization.

Now, possibly more than in normal times, it is necessary for the Chamber of Commerce to engage in a wide variety of activities intended to promote community welfare, and prospects for the coming year are such as to indicate unusual opportunities for service on the part of members, committees and officials.

The fact that eighty workers are contributing liberally of time and effort this week in renewing memberships and soliciting new members evidences the keen interest being taken within the organization to carry the work forward. An investment in a Chamber of Commerce membership is an expression of faith in the future of Mansfield—and no city can hope to progress without the kind of work that must be done by such an organization as the Chamber of Commerce.

High Schools To Have 'Victory Corps'

NATIONAL PREPAREDNESS, which was a rather vague term up to last December 7, takes on a still broader meaning since announcement that America's 6,500,000 high school students are to be trained for the war service that may be required of them when they leave school.

The plan, as announced by War Manpower Chief Paul V. McNutt, is to establish a "High School Victory Corps," to which all high school boys and girls will be eligible. Participation in civilian war activities during their school days will be encouraged; physical fitness programs will be carried through and there will be training in various lines of special service, also voluntary military drill.

At its recent convention in Kansas City the American Legion went on record as approving a year of military training for all young men before reaching their twenty-second birthday, and whatever the post-war attitude may be toward this proposal, it now appears that national security demands more general spread of "readiness to serve" than had heretofore been considered necessary.

Opportunity for military training of school boys was opened in Mansfield last spring by organization of the "Legion Cadets" by McVey post of the American Legion, which was among the first Legion posts in the country to take this progressive step. Extension of this plan to all high schools in the United States now appears probable.

The corps, which has been endorsed by army, navy, civil aeronautics and educational authorities, is to be headed by Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, flying ace in the first World war.

Fiddling While More Than Rome Burns

A REPORTER for The Seattle Times got a job in a shipyard near Seattle, and after two weeks of observation reported that there was a great deal of idleness. Men were not employed at full capacity, but had plenty of time to visit friends in various parts of the yard; to do over again work which had been done before; to look busy by poring over blueprints of which the workmen knew nothing and to mill around the exit gates several minutes before closing time.

These are serious indictments, especially as the reporter declared that he was convinced the condition was not local—that it existed in other shipyards in Puget Sound and in the shipyards of Oregon and California. Also that it existed in other war industries, not only on the Pacific coast but elsewhere in the United States.

There are times, of course, when yards and factories are kept waiting for necessary parts. In these circumstances perhaps men who frankly idle away time cannot be criticized. They are ready to go ahead with the work at any moment. Top notch management, however, might be able to devise useful work to fill such interims but union rules in some cases prevent such sensible use of time and manpower.

Two things about such waste become appalling. One is the deterioration of character of the men themselves, idle and cheating their country. The other is the waste of lives on battlefronts because needed materials do not arrive in time.

German Soldiers Hear From Home

LELAND STOWE, correspondent of the Chicago Daily News, writing from Moscow, recently quoted illuminating passages from letters found in the pockets of dead German soldiers, from their families at home. Here are some of them:

"Really, it's time you finished everything in the East. For if the British are going to send 1,000 planes every night, western Germany will be out of the war."

"The war's getting too much for the nerves. I don't know how much longer we can continue. About the food, it can't go on like this, yet they say it will get ever worse. There are people who already can just keep alive. Every day they bring new foreigners into Germany, and it's necessary to feed them, too."

"I've just received your three packages with material for shirts. Very fine. One sees that even in Russia there are some good things. The cord on the package is real, too. We can use it."

Imagine the effect of such letters on the soldiers. Perhaps the home front will collapse first.

The parole system has its good points and should not be abolished merely because Adolf Hitler was once paroled after serving only eight months of a five-year sentence.

A type of whisky favored in the South Pacific islands is made of a native kazapopa jazza root—and, in all probability, there's an appropriate musical accompaniment.

It is claimed that an Ohican who smashed a juke box was insane—but surely there must be some other evidence.

MORE TRANSPORTATION TROUBLE

Hershey Demands Are Confusing

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey stirred up a considerable hornets' nest with his recent scolding of Americans who haven't yet inducted themselves into wartime jobs, in an address before a national management association, gathered to discuss the alleged delay in our mobilization of manpower for productive purposes applicable to the current emergency.

The general is finding himself pretty copiously and angrily answered editorially, by the press throughout the country. Other executives, who have blamed the public for dereliction in reporting for civilian but urgent duties essential to 100 per cent effectiveness in fulfillment of Uncle Sam's share in the conflict against the Axis, are being panned similarly, not on the ground that they ask for anything too much, but that they don't ask for it intelligently.

The editorial critics' position is that an overwhelming majority of our Yankee citizenry is more than enthusiastically willing to make butter personal sacrifices, as well as to lend very-moderately-paid-for aid in behalf of our armed effort—only, the average has no clear idea just where his services are needed. If he's conscripted, for out-and-out fighting, he knows, what's expected of him, or, if not, he's soon told. Let him get out, however, and scratch for some such collateral assignment as General Hershey refers to and he's liable to have to look for it hither and yon.

Programs Confusing.

And why aren't such berths listed, with no search warrant required to find one, with no complications involved, except to volunteer?

Why, the reason, according to non-official analysts of the situation, is that our General Hersheys and other executives haven't got their own various programs worked out in detail, and don't know, themselves, precisely whom and what they do and don't want.

It's been advertised, though, that the correct system for our war managements to deal with their respective problems is to get tough with the public—to warn us that we "CAN lose," or "ARE losing" the war—our own fault.

Apparently this sort of thing has been overdone.

Through the press, executive-dom's being warned, in turn, that the public's on the verge of getting tough with it.

The charge is that folk like General Hershey appear to be still fumbling around for an over-all manpower policy, and are trying to hold the rest of us responsible for their failure to adopt it concretely.

Of course a congressional mandate is necessary to empower the executive groups to go ahead competently.

That appears to call for some legislation.

Legislation is slow work, too. Congress has been pokey in getting at it. Nevertheless, the executive function is to put a burr under the legislative tail—not to bawl out the general public because the burr isn't there.

Nelson's Tactics.

War Production Manager Donald M. Nelson has been more constructive and less of a scold than most of his associated war organizers. While they've been cursing the public he's been screeching for action on Capitol Hill to centralize business into one big agency, but to provide the necessary machinery to DE-centralize it after the war, to avoid an industrial dictatorship later on.

Nelson has construction in mind—not mere wartime construction, but a reorganization of business after the war.

If he gets away with it, he'll be history's prime-wonder.

It stands to reason that he's regarded skeptically today.

If his scheme works, he'll be business' Messiah on into the next century.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, Oct. 7, 1922.

Many from Mansfield were attending Bellville home-coming.

Lewis Stouffer, proprietor of East Fourth street meat market, was notified he was sole heir to his father's estate in Switzerland.

With Brunswick, N. J. dateline, the Hall-Mills murder case was prominently in the news.

Dr. Charles G. Brown, Arthur Oberlin and Hubert Tappan returned from hunting trip in Georgian Bay district.

Mansfield high school team defeated Bucyrus, 18-6, in first league football game of season.

Miss Frances Webber and James U. Funk were married at First Lutheran church by Rev. H. C. Roehner.

R. W. James bought the C. E. Scott home at 170 West Third street.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Oct. 7, 1777, British General John Burgoyne, moving southward by the Lake Champlain Hudson river route, was forced to abandon his forward march. In despair Burgoyne wrote, "Wherever the king's forces point, militia to the number of 3,000 to 4,000 assemble in a few hours." Ten days later he surrendered to General Gates the 5,000 men that were left of his army.

Listen World!

So You're Sore?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

(Introducing Mrs. R. T. C., Columnist for a Day)

I ASKED for your opinions on these times, and you certainly gave them, right off the griddle and straight to the chin. Well, that's the best part of living in a democracy. You can get anything off your chest. Even your gripe against the government. As, for instance, the following: Dear Elsie Robinson:

You've given me a chance to speak my piece and how I've wanted it! Generally I'm a fairly peaceable female. But this so-called "war effort" makes me thundering mad. What effort, and whose? The men in uniform, the ones who get $50 a month! It's not the ones who get $50 a week and upward. It's only our fighting forces—and what fighters they are—that have made any real effort; not our workers, not our government.

"Government of the people, by the people, for the people?" Ptaugh! There's no such government. We're ruled by the favored few, the weaklings and temporizers. I'm not fighting against America but I am fighting against those who mismanage America.

Not once did I vote for our President for I don't believe in wholesale socialization, but the majority did, so I have honored him as Number One Man and I have respected him for his effort to build an efficient fighting force. I would have voted for him the last time except he was upsetting tradition then, and I think Washington's view in that matter was correct.

Listening to his declaration of war speech on December 8, 1941, I wept unashamedly on the streets for his fighting heart. But what has happened? Why doesn't he get tough? Poke Labor in the nose and send it back to work? And look at what the farm bloc has been trying to do. I suppose they get enough to eat even if the country doesn't, and who cares about us? It's not sugar I'm beefing about; it's food. Here in my town there hasn't been a piece of good beef in the super-market for over 5 weeks. How would the beef-raisers like to go without decent steaks or roasts or even the humble hamburger for over a month?

Mrs. R. T. C.

THERE'S much more than that to Mrs. R. T. C.'s letter but unfortunately not enough space for it. I have printed it because I believe it expresses one of our major perils in these war times—the opinion of people who are still so isolated from the common lot that they cannot share the common hardship and sacrifice.

I do not play politics. But I do eat. And I work for what I eat. And I know the long hunger that has inspired the working man's fight for a better deal for himself and his children. I know what it is to have lost a child because I could not give him the right food and medical attention when he needed them. I admit the unions, at times, make me mad enough to bite nails. But at other times I glory in their loyalty and I thank God for their spunk.

As for the cattle-raisers—well, I'm one myself, lady. Yet it costs me just as much to buy a steak as it does you. And I've seen something that you haven't—a ranch withering and rotting for lack of helping hands. Labor prices rising beyond the reach of the rancher, farmer or small industrialist. For why? Because there is a War. Because we are a Democracy, a free people with free choice. And this is the price of maintaining a democracy in war.

I'm not saying our government is perfect. I suspect our President would be the first one to admit that it isn't. But you can bet on this—IT'S THE BEST AND THE FAIREST GOVERNMENT THE WORLD HAS EVER KNOWN. AND IT'S MAKING THE GREATEST EFFORT TO SAVE ITS VISION IN EVERY CITY AND STATE IN THE UNION. As for your city forget it. You're facing no tougher break than New Orleans, St. Louis, Kansas City, Chicago or Seattle. Grin and take it, sister — IT'S THE PRICE YOU OWE FOR BEING AN AMERICAN!

Interpreting the War News

Stalin's Rebuke Taken Gracefully As United Nations Plan More Aid

—By DE WITT MACKENZIE

LONDON—Premier Stalin's statement that Allied aid to Russia "has so far been little effective," as compared with the Soviet contribution to the cause of the United Nations, is being received in Britain in the spirit in which it apparently was offered—without rancor and with a desire to get ahead with the job of hanging Hitler.

Indeed, well-qualified observers point out that obviously there can be no dispute with the Soviet leader's estimate insofar as it concerns aid in the nature of action by combat forces. It is assumed this is what he referred to, not to equipment and supplies which Britain and America have been delivering with such difficulty and danger especially via that hellfire corner the Nazis established in northern Norway.

Stalin's statement made in response to questions by Henry C. Cassidy, Associated Press and Wide World correspondent, attracted attention throughout Britain. Far from causing resentment the premier's direct language is evoking a response in Britain and America, determined to deliver the necessary aid to Russia at the earliest possible moment.

THE striking thing to my mind is that his triple alliance, which in many respects represents a strange assortment of bedfellows, should have reached a point of understanding where rebukes can be exchanged without causing friction. Certainly the same could not have been said not so long ago.

Now this is of vast importance, for upon the solidarity of the triple alliance depends the future of Europe. The three governments recognize this and lessening of the natural suspicions which at first existed between the Communists and the Anglo-American combine presumably have been due to mutual efforts to reach an understanding.

There is no doubt that Stalin will get his second front at the first feasible moment. Irrespective of his desire, there would be a second front because of Anglo-American determination to establish one.

As I've already reported, Britain is being swept by the hunch that preparations are reaching the stage which will permit an offensive or offensives at almost any time.

The British public, like the American, lives for the day when a major offensive can be undertaken. However, the man in the street who not so long ago was loud in demands that a second front be opened immediately now has reached the conclusion after all it must be for the high command to say when and where offensives shall be undertaken.

To the average person the term "second front" seems to mean only one thing—invasion of the continent through France.

Apparently that is what Moscow has in mind, too.

However, I believe the Anglo-American command places a wider interpretation on the phrase and a good many military experts hold there are several theaters which would provide very useful "second fronts."

* * *

WHAT Stalin wants, of course, is an action that will draw a great number of German troops away from the eastern front in the quickest possible time and thus relieve the terrific pressure on his armies. Probably the only operation which would achieve this would be an invasion through France.

It is equally true that some day Uncle Sam and John Bull likely will have to put a great army ashore in France. In the view of many military men, that is the only way Hitler can finally be finished off. That is a hard, dangerous route to Germany—but it is the direct one.

However, of one thing we can be very certain—the Anglo-American command never will undertake that most difficult operation in all history of war until it feels reasonably certain of success.

The point is that if an attempt at wholesale invasion of France should result in disaster, it would lay the British Isles wide open to counter-invasion and Britain would be knocked out.

That is why this country isn't likely to tackle such an operation until the men and equipment are ready.

Watching Trends

WASHINGTON — In case you haven't followed the sports pages, there's a terrible ruckus raging about private profits being made out of the army emergency relief sports events.

It came to a sort of furious climax the other day when Secretary of War Stimson indignantly cancelled the Louis-Conn heavyweight championship fight in New York in October and ordered Sergeant Louis and Corporal Conn back to duty. He said simply, in effect, that it was "for the best interests of the army," but the controversy, according to sports writers, came out of the fact that creditors of the two fighters (mostly "Uncle Mike" Jacobs, the New York boxing king) were to get approximately $135,000 from the expected $1,000,000 or so gate.

THE army and navy followed this by declaring that after November 15, there would be no more private benefits of any kind staged for army and navy relief.

In the muddled background was the charge that our own Washington Redskins pro football team had collected better than $13,000 for a game against the army All-Stars in Los Angeles, where the gross gate was around $82,000. Also that the Chicago Bears got $15,000 for a similar pre-season game with the Eastern army team in Boston.

The right or wrong of all this is beyond me. The AER civilian committee chairmen in charge of these events, Grantland Rice and John Kieran, are above reproach. Every one on the army side, from Secretary Stimson down, has said so. In fact no one but the sports promoters, team owners, etc., have been condemned, and most of them have put forth apparently reasonable arguments (or offers) to back their declarations that they are just as financially patriotic or willing to be as the next fellow.

The pity of it is that this state of affairs has brought about the cancellation of all private charities for army and navy relief and thus deprived them of millions of much-needed dollars.

THE charity rackets are as old as the hills. The department of justice, through its contacts with the FBI, the secret service, the postoffice inspectors and local police, could turn you out a file that would list every one ever conceived.

They could also turn out a contract, without a single loophole, in no time at all that would assure the relief organizations that they would get every cent that was coming to them and at the same time secure the private promoters (somebody has to sell tickets and hand out handbills, you know) that they would lose no more than a little sweat of their brow.

The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light; they that dwell in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined.—Isaiah 9:2.

Timely Editorial

All Deserve Credit.

A kind of half-defiant national campaign to make sure that everybody gets credit for performing his duty seems to be in progress. Citizens are urged to remember the self-sacrificing school teachers, the patient housewives, the unsung heroes of the merchant marine, the defense plant workers, the indispensable farmers, the forgotten clerical workers, the invaluable truck drivers, all the members of the service industries who only stand and wait — and everybody else who comes to mind.

Psychologically, the reason for this sudden concern lest someone be slighted is jealousy of Americans wearing uniforms to mark their part in the national war effort. The general idea is to call attention to the importance of civilians. This is understandable but hardly praiseworthy. If the United tSates wins the war, acknowledgements will be due to every man, woman and child who had any part in the victory.—Canton Repository.

A Farmer's Diary

Short of Help

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I OVERTOOK my neighbor's 13-year-old boy hurrying toward the village before sunup. As I stopped and opened the car door, I said, "You certainly aren't going to school this early!"

"No—I'm goin' to see a man who's promised to come and cut our corn with his tractor and corn binder. Have eight acres yet to do—the best of the crop, and it must be done this week, so we can put the wheat out.

"School won't see me no more until things get done up a little around home. Mom, my sister and I worked until after 10 last night, cutting corn. Seemed like I'd only been asleep an hour when 'twas time to get up. I had an early breakfast, and done the chores, and now it's 7:30 and it looks like I'd be plenty hungry before noon."

ON A HILLY farm, a mile farther on, a man of 75 was harrowing the frosty soil. I saw he had already worked a half acre of ground. He greeted me as his team rested, standing with canvas gloved hands upon an icy rail.

"You started early," I suggested.

"'Twasn't six thirty yet—and pretty cold. I'm glad to see the sun begin to shine. I've got twelve acres to fit and sow and that's a small job for a young fellow like me! My two grandsons helped me all summer. Now they're gone to the war. We haven't heard from 'em lately. Carrie—that's my wife—she worries when we go to bed. Some way those two have been nearer to her and me than even our own five children. Mebbe because we're older, and can appreciate 'em more. She's got two service stars up in the window and she writes 'em each a letter twice a week. I hope they can get furloughs in the spring—to help with planting . . ."

* * *

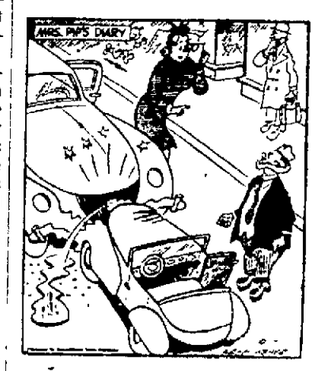
THAT same afternoon I walked into a large hillside apple orchard. The long rows of apple trees, loaded with red and yellow fruit, were a splendid sight. At the upper corner an old woman was picking from the ground, while two old men—retired farmers, beyond 65—were working from ladders.

"Is this all the help today?" I wondered.

"Yes," said one old man. "I see where another orchard is paying $7 a day for picking apples. I claim that's more'n old folks like us is worth. We couldn't pay such wages during the last war, and I don't b'lieve in it now."

"Pears to me," said the woman, "it'd be just common sense to let the village high school out each afternoon, and use the buses to haul the students where they're needed most to work. Three fourths of 'em are country children, and know how. There must be some way to keep this stuff from going to waste!"

LIFE'S LIKE THAT



"I'm sorry, but I didn't see you coming. . . . I thought you were a speck on my windshield."
